Scranton Young Man Meets Death in the Smoky City.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kelly, of 535 Eynon street, received a telegram last evening from Pittsburg announcing that their son, 20-year-old Patrick J. Kelly, had been killed. The manner of his death was not disclosed by the message, but as he was a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad, it is supposed he was killed by the cars. His brother, John J. Kelly, and Undertaker J. E. Regan went to Pittsburg last night for the remains. The deceased had been in Pittsburg about a year and a half. Before leaving here he was employed as a brakeman at the South Steel mill. He is survived by his parents, a brother, John J., and three sisters, Mary A. Nellie and Margaret.

POOR BOARD MEETING.

Numerous Applications for Relief Were Heard by the Members.

At vesterday afternoon's meeting of the poor board, Mrs. W. B. Duggan, agent of the Associated Charities asked that the seven children of Mrs Anton Baliskowsky, of South Scranton. be taken from her on account of the disreputable life she is leading.

The board decided to send Mrs. Balskowsky and her youngest child, an Infant in arms, to the Hillside home and arrangements will be made at once to have the other children admitted to some of the local charitable institutions. It was decided to send to the house of refuge the two eldest children of Mrs. Sampson, who was recently committed to the Hillside home for keeping a disorderly house.

Mrs. James Daley, of 629 Hickory street, appeared before the board and calmly asked that her rent of $6 per month be paid in the future. It was explained that the board was not paying rent and Mrs. Daley went away very dissatisfied.

Mrs. Bridget Gaughan, a widow, 60 years old, without any means of support, was admitted to the Hillside home, where she said she was perfectly willing to pass the rest of her

THEY ARE ALL BIGAMISTS

Two Wives of Man Charged with Bigamy Admit Having Married Without Securing Divorces.

There were some most remarkable developments yesterday at a hearing pefore Magistrate Millar in the case of David Thomas, who was charged by Miss Grace Franklin, of Penn avenue, with bigamy. Thomas married Miss Franklin's nother some three years ago in Avoca, and they have since lived here. Miss Franklin claimed that her step-father had a wife living in Forest City. This woman was subpoensed and testified at the hearing. Her testimony showed that she, too, had committed bigamy. She married Thomas about nine years ago, she said, and lived with him until about three years ago, when he left her. She testified that not long after Thomas left her, she married a man named Richards, with whem she is now living. She procured no divorce before marrying him, she said.

Her testimony created some little urprise in the court room, which urned into astonishment when Thomis' present wife, the mother of the prosecutrix, took the stand and admitted that she had never secured a divorce from her husband before she married Thomas. This was tantamount to admitting that she had committed bigamy, also:

Thomas had been arrested in the carly morning, but was paroled in the custody of his attorney, Frank Boyle. He failed to show up at the hearing, however. The magistrate held him In $800 for his appearance in court, and issued a commitment, which he placed in the hands of his constables, who will endeavor to seek Themas out to-

MAUD GONNE IN SCRANTON

IRISH JOAN OF ARC" IS SPEND-ING THREE DAYS HERE.

Accompanied by Major McBride, of Transvaal Fame, She Is Touring America in the Interest of the Irish Revolutionary Movement - Arms Instead of Wealth Is What Miss Gonne Advocates-Guests of John Mitchell Club and Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H.

Maud Gonne, the "Irish Joan of Are," and Major John McBride, who led the Irish brigade against the British in the Transvaal, arrived in Scranton yesterday on a tour of America in the interests of the Irish revolutionary movement. They are to lecture in St. Thomas College hall Sunday night, under the auspices of the John Mitchell club, and in the interim are devoting themselves to consultations with Irish eaders and incidentally to the enjoyment of an elaborate entertainment programme prepared by the Mitchell lub, and the Ladies' auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

They were met on their arrival by a delegation of these and other Irish societies and escorted to the Lackawanna Valley house, where a brief informal reception was held. In the early evening they were escorted through the steel mills by Miss Catherine O'Hara, president of the Daughters of Erin: Miss Anna Malia, Miss Kennedy, Miss Bridget Padden, Miss Mary Shields, Miss Dougher, James McGuinness, M J. Burns and C. T. Boland.

At 9 o'clock a reception was tendered them by the Ladies' auxiliary in Campbell's hall, Lackawanna avenue, at which C. T. Boland presided. Addresses of welcome were made by Prof. A. F. O'Boyle, on behalf of the Mitchell club, and by Miss O'Hara, for the Ladies' auxiliary. Miss Gonne and Major Mc Bride responded briefly. Other addresses were made by Jury Commis sioner D. J. Campbell, Senator J. C Vaughan, John H. Devine and J. C. Gallagher. Miss Mary Boland, Prof. M. J. Lovern and William Gilroy gave recitations, and there were songs by John Sheridan and Michael Donnegan.

AUDIENCE WITH BISHOP. This afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Miss Gonne and Major McBride will have an audience with Bishop Hoban. Tonight they will be taken into a mine, and tomorrow afternoon will enjoy; drive over the boulevard.

In an interview with a Tribune re porter, Miss Gonne left no doubt of he eing a rabid revolutionist. freedom by talk. During the last tweny-five years the parliamentary movement, as it is called, has witnessed the diminishing of Ireland's population by more than a million and the heavy increase of her taxes, without accomplishing anything substantial for he benefit.

"If Ireland is to gain her rights, arms and not breath must be used in the fight. The Boer war has shown that England is not the invincible military ower it boasted of being. This means that she will ere long be embroiled in war with nations which have only held back from attacking her because of the supposition of her being such a mighty nation in war. Her very next arrogant When that event transpires, Ireland's opportunity will be at hand. It was at hand even in the Boer war. At one time there were only 8,000 British soldiers in Ireland. But we weren't ready. When it comes again, however, we will be prepared. We are preparing now. Major McBride and I are in America. further those preparations. The details I can not give you, but let me say that the preparations are well advanced. and by the time the opportunity comes they will be complete.

AN ATTRACTIVE WOMAN.

Miss Gonne is a woman of extremely attractive personality. She is more than six feet tall, but erect and lithe and her face, of a pretty Irish type, crowned by a wealth of light hair, is nade the more attractive by a pair of bright, flashing eyes and a pleasant, sympathetic smile, which almost continually lights up her countenance when talking.

Like many of the most illustrious of the Irish leaders, like Wolfe Tone, Fitzgerald, Robert Emmet, John Mitchell and Parnell, Miss Goune is a Protestant, and a descendant of the propertywning class.

Miss Gonne is the daughter of an Irish colonel of the British army, and all her family connections are loyalists and of the landlord class. One uncle is a general in the British army, cousin is a captain, while her only sister is the wife of Colonel Pilcher, who is serving against the Boers in South Africa. Her conversion to nationalism was the result of witnessing a particularly cruel eviction while on a visit to the house of a neighboring landlord. It had such an effect on her that she resolved to devote her life to an effort to put an end to the system responsible for such savagery, and that system she says, she soon realized, could only be removed by the destruction of Brit ish rule in Ireland. From that time on she became the champion of the most extreme form of Irish nationality, and devoted particular attention to the unfortunate political prisoners who, up to a few years ago, were in British prisons. She was for several years the very life and soul of the amnesty movement in Ireland and England, making a tour of the "three kingdoms." addressing meetings, visiting the prisoners, and in every way possible keeping public at tention fixed on the question of their reatment and urging a demand for their release.

CHAMPION OF BOER CAUSE. Since the outbreak of the war in South Africa she has been a sturdy champion of the Boer cause and has devoted her energies to the work of preventing young Irishmen from joining the British army. From the opening of the war she has been address. ing a series of meetings throughout Ireland and working among the women for the purpose of making the British military service odious, and she has succeeded to a remarkable degree. It is claimed that since she began this movement the number of Irishmen in the British army has decreased from 38,000 to 20,000. It is for the purpose of providing funds for this campaign that her lecture tour was mainly under our customer sees our large stock of Shirts, U

derwear and Hosiery. We are always on the elecfor the real thing. The price indicates what it's worth to us only. You'll find it worth much
